

What a day for a parade

It was a parade to talk about and remember.

The Wilmington Anniversary Parade was perhaps three miles long. It was, of course, to celebrate the 250th birthday of Wilmington, which will occur on September 25.

The parade was held on Sept. 7 because Boston will be celebrating its 350th birthday on the weekend of the 21st. The Wilmington committee felt that it was prudent not to have a conflict of dates.

The parade took about one hour and 35 minutes to pass any given point. If the rate of advance is computed at two miles an hour the parade would have been a little over three miles in length.

The parade was formed in North Wilmington for a very good reason. The official place was the North Intermediate School. Unofficially, the streets leading off Arlene Avenue, four in number, plus the extension of Arlene Avenue gave the parade marshalls a wonderful place in which to assemble the various units. In addition to this there was also a lot of space at the North Intermediate School. All units could march down to the head of Middlesex Avenue, and then join in the parade at the designated time.

The job of coordinating all the units fell on a few members of the committee, primarily Dave Hill, Jack Clark and Bob Cain. Hill was probably the best prepared for the work, spending the afternoon on his motorcycle, riding to various points in the parade. During the course of the parade he logged 19 miles.

To say that any particular unit was the best is difficult. It is not difficult though, to say that the United States Army Band was the best in the parade.

Of the visiting bands three must, in particular, be mentioned. The Nutmeg Volunteers, from Connecticut, were probably the best of the bands composed of the younger generation. The Aleppo Temple Band was good, and in a different vein from all others was the Aleppo Temple Oriental Band, with all members garbed as people might have been garbed in the days of Haroun Al Raschid. The music sounded weird and oriental.

Aleppo Temple Shrine must be mentioned too, as having the greatest number of units. It had its own motor club, its own police guards, a stalwart group of Minutemen, a mounted patrol, and a super duper scooter patrol on little automobiles, to sweep up after the mounted patrol. There were toy locomotives and clowns, and other units.

Aleppo Temple was the largest organization in the parade, making up the entire second division.

The Kiwanis Club of Wilmington did not occupy a place in the parade.

There were several good reasons.

Kiwanis President Roger Beaupre was driving the Wilmington Regional Health Center truck. He was, too, wearing a K of C uniform. Other Kiwanis members were to be found on Wilmington common, welling popcorn.

But both the Lions and the Rotary had floats.

The parade also had more than a few persons roaming the streets, dressed in the costume of a Lion. It is to be presumed they were members of the Lions Club.

One Lion wandered from one side of the parade to the other. When he saw a familiar face among the young people watching the parade this Lion would go up, and with both paws chuck the child under the jawbones. No one seemed to know who the Lion was.

Wilmington High School vice principal Jack Lynch, however, was able to ask each of the children, next day, how they liked the experience.

The Diplomats Drum and Bugle Corps, in the parade Sunday, had a part of their marching members among the missing.

Two youngsters, who were supposed to carry a banner saying that the Diplomats were sponsored by the Charles River Breeding Laboratories were, unfortunately among the missing by the time the parade reached the reviewing stand.

Probably 10,000 spectators lined the sidewalks, to see the parade. There was one point on which a few comments have been made.

Adults from age 30 and up were seen to straighten to attention, when the U.S. flag passed. The younger generation, more than one person has remarked, did not get up from their seats on the curbstone.

Strange as it may seem, there were many people who were not able to view the Wilmington 250th Anniversary Parade on Sunday. One complaint of those who marched is that it is impossible to march in and view the parade simultaneously.

But for those who missed it, and for those who want to see it again, the parade will be on television on Friday night. It will be broadcast on Cable Channel 6 at 8 p.m. Also to be broadcast are the highlights of the July 4 celebration.

What a day for a parade

What a day for a parade, the sky was so blue
The sun smiling brightly, the citizens were too
The whole town had turned out in anticipation
For the biggest parade they'd ever been facin'

There was no disappointment, 'twas deemed a success
It was quite plain to see they had broken their necks
To put on a show we would never forget
As they marched thru the miles bet their achin' still yet

I hope you were there; if you weren't it's a shame
I never had so many folks call me by name
Let's do it again was the cry of the day
But our next super birthday is fifty away

The floats and marchers, the great playing bands
The children, the elders, they were all clapping hands
I'll bet they won't wait for it would bring tears
Will we do it again - you just wait 'til next year

WHA votes the 774 route

There were 27 very unhappy spectators, at the meeting of the Wilmington Housing Authority Monday evening.

The Housing Authority voted, three to two, to invoke Chapter 774, in the effort to get public housing built in Wilmington, near the Wilmington Plaza. The motion was by Lorraine Brozyna. Mel Keough and George Hooper voted against and Kevin McMillan and Brozyna voted in favor.

Barbara Larson, chairman, then broke the tie and voted in favor. It was, the board said, the first time she had voted since being in the chair.

The vote was conducted amidst efforts of the spectators to put their own thoughts into the minds of the Housing Authority. Barbara Larson had to be firm, to keep order.

It was 9:40 p.m. when Lorraine Brozyna made her motion. The spectators, most of whom had been present since 8 p.m. had listened patiently to a complete reading of all incoming correspondence, which took 65 minutes. Then they listened to discussions on contracts and improvements for the present elderly and other housing in Wilmington.

A contract for a wheelchair, at the Deming Way Housing for the Elderly was voted. A discussion leading to the installation of sliding windows was held. There was also discussion about the installation of gas heating, instead of the present oil heating. An appointment is to be set up with the Lowell Gas Company.

Paul Theodos, one of those present, just before the last part of the meeting started to set up a tape recorder. George Hooper objected. Theodos argued that it was a public meeting, and that the Housing Authority could not stop him from making a tape recording. He put his recorder on the table, in front of the Authority members.

It was then that Barbara Larson asked the members as to their feelings on the proposed Housing for the Elderly, on Main Street, and the proposed 25 units of family housing, to be in back facing Glen Road.

Mel Keough was the first to speak. He told the board of the possibilities of having a special town meeting. Lorraine Brozyna joined to discuss the cancellation of the previous town meeting by the selectmen.

Mrs. Larson agreed. The onus for the cancelled meeting, she said, is on the selectmen. "We went in good faith," it is the first time it ever happened in Wilmington - one board denying another.

HUD (the federal agency in charge of federally subsidized housing) still does not know what it will do, Larson said.

"We went to the townspeople, and got one thousand signatures, for this housing," Mrs. Brozyna said. "The only people who are opposed are those here."

She continued, to express her confidence as to what had been done, and her confidence in the proposed location. She would like to see, she said, Chapter 774 brought in.

Lorraine Brozyna then moved that the developer (the Berkshire Builders, Ed.) go to the Board of Appeals, to request the right to put up, first elderly housing, and at a later date, low and moderate income family housing.

Several of the spectators tried to speak. Among them was Robin Theodos of Glen Road. She begged to be heard.

Barbara Larson ignored the spectators, as much as she could, and called for a vote. It was two to two, Keough and Hooper opposed, Brozyna and McMillan in favor. It was at that time that Larson broke the tie, and voted in favor.

The meeting of the WHA was not completed, at this time. Barbara Larson allowed a little input from the audience. She explained, not once, but several times, that it was necessary to be on the agenda in order to participate.

Mrs. Theodos spoke again. She had recently entered the meeting room from the selectmen's meeting, being held in the Town Hall. She tried to tell of what had happened at the selectmen's meeting, but she did not seem to be able to keep the attention of the authority members, on that subject.

It was her feeling, she said, that the people no longer wanted the housing, and more importantly, they did not want housing under the auspices of HUD.

Robert DeSantis of Glen Road was another person who spoke. The reason the selectmen cancelled the town meeting, he charged, was because the Housing Authority had not properly presented its proposals. It was a case of their not being able to understand.

Paul Theodos tried to speak. He was one of about half a dozen persons who were trying. Three or four of them were standing close to Lorraine Brozyna.

Lorraine had to raise her voice, to be heard. The gist of her remarks was that the people of the audience were at the meeting to present their own views. "I represent all of the people of the town."

A man named DePasquale asked about a letter that had been read in the earlier part of the evening. The letter was to Congressman Shannon, requesting aid in getting elderly housing through HUD.

DePasquale said that they (HUD, presumably, Ed.) are going to attach conditions, and the condition is that there will be low income housing. "They will win. - That's the law."

The Executive Director of WHA, Henry Borazzo, said it was a point well taken.

He had read, this evening, he said, the letter to Congressman Shannon, with a copy to Senator Tsongas, requesting a meeting with HUD for the purpose of getting just elderly housing. "We don't have an answer yet."

The project numbers, in HUD, he went on, are 0-61-003 and 0-61-001.

HUD granted 0-61-003, 80 units of elderly housing, he said, only after "we showed good faith and asked for 25 units of low and moderate income housing."

"I know Mrs. Theodos has written, and she got the same answer we did - vague." "That is why I have gone over the heads of HUD, and written to Congressman Shannon."

Several persons were trying to get a chance to speak. Barbara Larson again stated that anyone who wants to speak at one of the meetings should, before hand, be put on the agenda.

"This meeting is closed." It was 9:45 p.m. when the meeting closed, and the spectators began to file out. "This is a disgrace," was the statement of George Dyas.

Selectmen oppose project

The Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday night expressed its intention to fight the Wilmington Housing Authority's attempt to use Chapter 774 for a proposed housing project.

The selectmen were meeting at the same time as the Housing Authority. Even before the Housing Authority had voted to use Chapter 774, the selectmen had gone on record as being opposed to that course of action.

Under Chapter 774, a developer, in this case the Housing Authority and Berkshire Builders, is able to handle all local permits in one case before the Board of Appeals. The developer makes application for a comprehensive permit, the Board of Appeals notifies all other town boards and inspectors, and the hearing is held for the permits. After the hearing, the board has 40 days to assemble its finding, combining input from the other boards.

If the permit is denied or overly restrictive, the developer can appeal to the state, thus overriding local controls.

The selectmen on Monday night were questioned by Mrs. Robin Theodos of Glen Road. She said that she would like individual commitments from each of them, as to whether they were for or against the project. She tape recorded their

Everyone is invited to join this enthusiastic organization - for membership call Eva Chase, 851-6576.

Monday, September 22, the opening meeting for the T.A.G. will be highlighted by an oil painting demonstration by Gloucester artist Charles Movall, who has won numerous awards at North Shore and Rockport, and is also a contributing editor of "American Artist Magazine."

The Guild's meetings are held at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Chapel of the Tewksbury State Hospital, East Street. There is a guest fee for non-members, refreshments served.

The T.A.G. is also sponsoring a print-along with Rockport artist Robert Benham on Sunday, October 4, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. This could prove to be an exciting and informative lesson on seascape painting. For more information and to register call 851-6576.

Oil painting classes by Lorraine Stevens will be held again this year - back by popular demand. Mrs. Stevens is an award-winning artist, noted especially for her still life painting. ## Teen theater Tewksbury's Teen Theater Workshop will present Cole Porter's "Anything Goes" as its fall production. Auditions for the many character roles in this musical will take place September 15 and 16.

The "Love Boat" setting for this zany show of disguise and mixed identities permits a variety of passengers, each with a different type of character.

In addition to Public Enemy 13, who has the perennial heart of gold, there's Reno Sweeney, nightclub singer turned evangelist. Sometimes Reno has trouble deciding whether she's a savior of souls or a burlesque queen. Also on board the S.S. America are Hope Harcourt and her fiancé, a stuffy English lord. Unfortunately for Hope, the man she truly loves, Billy, is also on board. The various romances with their musical comedy twists help to create an enjoyable evening at the theater.

"Anything Goes" is the Porter show that made Ethel Merman famous. It boasts songs like "Friendship," "It's Delovely," "Blow Gabriel Blow," "Take Me Back to Manhattan," and, of course, the title song. Any young people interested in participating in this old-time musical may call the show's director, Norm DeMarais, at 851-7147.

Some tales of The Andover Road

A sketch of East Wilmington, using the streets of a century ago, to show the ancient landmarks of that part of Wilmington.

The heavy line, showing Woburn Street etc. is the ancient Andover Road. The dotted line is the approximate survey line of The Charlestown Line, made sometime before 1640. The shaded area, to the right, was claimed by Reading in 1730, when Wilmington was set off. The claim did not hold.

Over 100 years ago the poet Henry Wadsworth Longfellow sang of the Wayside Inn, in Sudbury. It was a tale of the travelers on the road southwesterly out of Boston - that which is today called the Boston Post Road.

There was no one who sang of the travelers who took the road northwesterly out of Boston.

About the same time that the road toward New York was cut through the forests by the early settlers, one was also tracked through the forest between Andover and Boston. In the early Colonial days it was just as important, if not more important, than that which became the Boston Post Road.

The Andover Road was the connection between Boston and Maine, between Boston and Haverhill, and between Boston and Andover. It was started soon after Andover was settled, and that was in 1635.

The people who settled Andover arrived by sea, and went up the Merrimack River to their destination. The year as stated, was 1635.

To get from Boston to Andover, or to go the other way, in those early years, meant to go down one river, to travel by sea in a boat to another, and then to travel up the second river. For between Boston and Andover was a large and marshy swamp, with the Ipswich River in that swamp.

The early Colonials soon found a ford. Where some brooks joined together, in what was then to be described as a part of Lynn, was a sandy bar. One could walk - or ride a horse, across the river at that point.

Shortly afterward the town of Reading was established, and that ford was in Reading. There seems to have been no particular name for it. In the year 1648 the Colonial legislature ordered that a bridge be built across the Ipswich, in Reading.

That was not the first bridge that the early General Court ordered to be built, nor was it the last. Probably a decade before the Court ordered that a bridge be built across the Mystic River, in Medford.

Eventually that ford over the river became a bridge over the river. The bridge, in years to come, took its name from a family which settled nearby, up from Medford in 1703, a family named Jenkins. Today it is called Jenks Bridge, and it is in East Wilmington.

Primary Tuesday

Voters will go to the polls next Tuesday to vote in the Massachusetts primary. Those who take a Republican ballot will find no contests. The candidates are all running unopposed.

The Democratic ticket is more crowded and includes some good contests. The lead-off contest is for the Fifth District Congressional seat. Incumbent James Shannon of Lawrence is challenged by Robert Hatem of Lowell.

Running for Governor's Councillor are incumbent John F. Markey of North Andover, and Robert P. O'Meara of Salem.

The State Senate races are interesting in both Tewksbury and Wilmington. Wilmington is a part of the First Essex and Middlesex District. Three Democrats, Robert Cain, William Gustus and Regina Villa are seeking the nomination. The winner will face incumbent Republican Robert Buell in November.

Tewksbury is a part of the Second Essex and Middlesex Senate District. A good race has developed between veteran Senator William X. Wall and Patricia McGovern, a Lawrence attorney.

State Representative James R. Miceli is running unopposed for reelection in the Twentieth Middlesex District, which includes Tewksbury and five of Wilmington's six precincts.

In Wilmington's precinct three, Rep. Michael Barrett has no opposition in the primary.

Two seats for County Commissioner are on the ballot. Seeking reelection are incumbents Michael E.

McLaughlin and S. Lester Ralph. Challenging them is Thomas J. Larkin of Bedford.

Middlesex County Sheriff John Buckley is not running for reelection. As a result, eight Democrats are seeking the nomination for that seat. They are James A. Breslin, Charles Leo Buckley, Joseph Michael Caterina, Vincent Paul Ciampa, Thomas A. Corkery, Edward F. Henneberry, Jr., Michael A. McLaughlin and Vincent F. Zabbo.

In Wilmington, all six precincts vote at the High School gymnasium. The polls are open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

In Tewksbury, the polls are open from 6 a.m. to 8 p.m. Voting is conducted at the high school, the North Street School and the Shawsheen School.

Adult evening school at Shawsheen Tech

Shawsheen Vocational Technical High School will hold registration for Adult Evening School on September 15, 16 and 17 from 7 to 9 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

During the school year classes will be offered in two semesters: Fall semester from September 29 to January 8; Spring semester from January 13 to April 16. The rate is the same for each course; consequently the variations in fees are determined by the materials used, as the school committee is attempting to make these courses self-supporting.

letters to the editor

To the 250th Committee:

Thanks!!!
Thanks for putting in those long meetings in the basement of the Town Hall.

Thanks for taking all that abuse for the 250th anniversary ball and having the guts to run another one.

Thanks for a great Fourth of July.

Thanks for those concerts which we enjoyed on the grass while you people sweated in a hot stand cooking hot dogs.

Thanks for making those hundreds of telephone calls, those thousands of letters, but most of all thanks for giving us a 250th Parade that has to be the best the town has ever seen.

Thanks for a great year.
Thanks for the memories!!!

Phil Coolberth

Dear Larz:

I think the Irans do not have a right to hold the hostages in Iran because the Shah has died so that it makes us even.

by Eric Eisenberg,
age eight

To the 250th

Anniversary Committee:

My heart sings tonight!

That parade - the work that was accomplished by the 250th Committee for the Town of Wilmington should win them a place forever, not only in the annals of time, but in the hearts of all Wilmingtonites - past, present and future!

What that parade represented to me - well, I'm stuck for words. (and that's something for NN - right?)

From the small ones to the large ones; the old ones to the young ones; the military to the industries, who put their hearts, their time, as well as their "empty" stomachs into the effort; and those behind the scenes, who made the floats and dressed and coached the characters; and the Shriners, who have added so much to the town (and I can't possibly mention all) - I give my own and the Clan's personal thanks.

To the 250th Committee and their eternal planning, and vigilance, and their mammoth efforts in putting things together, and in the raising of the funds to support it, my hat is off!

God gave us a perfect day - and perfect people.
Wilmington-I

Luv ya

Nosey Nancy

P.S. Jimmy Miceli and selectmen, hear this - I do wish that I was in charge of citations.

P.P.S. Aren't you all proud of the excellent job those special cops did on their first time out?

Dear Larz:

I read with amazement your article in the Town Crier that stated, Mr. Borazzo and his Housing Authority are considering pursuing action under Chapter 774 to force the Town of Wilmington to swallow the authority's low income housing project!! Why?

Where has the Wilmington Housing Authority been? Every meeting Mr. Borazzo's housing authority has held (and postponed) has been crowded to the extreme, proving no one wants their housing project.

Your own paper ran a poll and the low income project has shown to be distasteful to the voters by a wide majority. If the housing authority can't hear and can't read, how can the people get through to them?

The only groups that seem determined to ram this housing project through are Mr. Borazzo's housing authority and Berkshire Builders. With a supposed windfall of five million dollars available to the contractor to play with, I can see why Berkshire wants to push it through, but I cannot understand why a supposedly sensible housing authority should go so far out of their way to antagonize their neighbors in Wilmington.

How much more sensible it would be to entirely put aside the extremely unpopular low income project portion of the housing authority's plan, and concentrate on their efforts to bring about the more popular housing for the elderly.

Why doesn't Mr. Borazzo's housing authority want to listen to the voters of Wilmington? Better still, why doesn't the housing authority have intestinal fortitude (guts) enough to do something along these lines themselves?

Also, why has a long established businessman been given an eviction notice forcing him out of his building (which happens, probably by coincidence to sit on an area of land needed to give access to the housing project) with a reported offer of up to several thousand dollars available from the housing authority to help the businessman relocate? Strange things are happening.

Finally, if the people of Wilmington must eventually lay powerless under Mr. Borazzo's Housing authority's heel, they can at least strike back at the town officials who are responsible. Remember the names of these town officials at election time; see if they include their stand on low income housing in their resumes in the paper. It's almost guaranteed they won't.

Just remember their names.
Remember and act!!

SHE CAN'T VOTE FOR CONGRESSMAN SHANNON ...BUT HE VOTED FOR HER.

This is Laurie.
She needs love. But she also needs good nutrition. A warm home in winter. Good medical care when she's sick. All the protection she can get from violence and abuse. And an even break for a happy and prosperous future.

Not all children get these things. Not by a long shot. That's why the government sometimes has to help them and protect them.

In the first session of the 96th Congress, there were eight bills introduced which had a direct effect on the well-being of America's children—for better or for worse. According to the American Parent's Committee in Washington, only a handful of congressmen voted on the side of kids on all eight of these important bills.

Congressman Jim Shannon was one of them, receiving a perfect 100% rating from the American Parent's Committee.

As a matter of fact, Jim Shannon's voting record in Congress has received some of the highest scores given by major national consumer groups who rate all 535 federal legislators every year.

Ralph Nader's Public Interest Congress Watch gave Jim a 93% rating for pro-consumer votes last year—the second highest in the entire U.S. Congress.

The Consumer Federation of America rated Jim at 96%, calling him a "consumer hero."

The League of Women Voters gave Jim a 100% rating for standing up for consumer rights in Washington.

And New York's Village Voice newspaper investigated the entire U.S. Congress to determine who was most easily influenced by rich, powerful special interests and who could be most trusted by the American voter. Their conclusion: "There are members of Congress who are principled, independent, diligent, and do more than just vote correctly most of the time. Some members resist the corporate interests with personal intensity. They take political risks. They defend the public interest even when there is pressure to go along. Here is an honor-roll of twenty five congresspeople nobody owns".

Jim Shannon is on this list.

Few congressmen have a better score when it comes to going to bat for the American family.

Your vote will keep Jim working for you.

"In just a few hours, this can be turned into black, sticky sludge."

"Just one mistake. And millions of gallons of slimy oil can destroy the coast of Massachusetts."

"Our state government has sold out to the oil companies — and copped out on its obligation to protect us from the disaster that offshore drilling could cause."

"We need adequate safeguards ... now. As your new State Senator, I will call for an immediate moratorium on the further sale of offshore drilling leases — until those safeguards are put in place."

"So far, they've discovered a 21 day supply of oil on Georges Bank. That won't do much for America, but it's more than enough to wipe out our fishing industry, our beaches, our wildlife and more."

"And guess who will pay for that?"
 "Not us, if I have anything to say about it. You'll know who your State Senator is."

Ed Henneberry Sheriff Middlesex County

He stands out on the issues.

★ Ed Henneberry wants to improve the operation of criminal justice in Middlesex County as Sheriff. Since the incumbent John Buckley is not a candidate for re-election, there will definitely be a new Sheriff for the next six years. That person can have a tremendous impact on crime and the court system affecting Middlesex County residents.

★ Ed Henneberry believes that the important thing to remember when dealing with prisoners in the House of Correction is that they will be getting out of prison very soon, with a choice for their future, either contributing to society or contributing to their criminal records. How they are dealt with at Billerica can greatly influence that decision. "We must instruct with discipline and with an interest in rehabilitation. Inmates should not be idle during the day. They should work either to help pay the cost of their incarceration or to make restitution to the victims of their crimes."

★ Ed Henneberry is in favor of improving the speedy trial system in the criminal courts to help reduce the overcrowding problem at Billerica and to strengthen the due process of law as it applies to the individual awaiting trial behind bars.

Strong enough to be progressive.
 Tough enough to be practical.

Vote September 16th — Democratic Primary

Authorized and paid for by the Committee to Elect Edward F. Henneberry, Jr., Sheriff. Fred DeLo Russo, Chairman.

People . . . They're What Makes the Difference

People. Never underestimate them. Every time you think you've figured them out, they'll do something that'll floor you.

People. They're absolutely incredible. And you'll never be able to figure them out.

They're enthusiastic, helpful, vigorous, supportive, concerned, creative and crazy. And just when you think you've thought of everything, they are tireless.

People. They've always made the difference at Sweetheart Plastics. They are the catalyst that makes things happen.

Like this past summer when "Good Guy" Jack Cushing came around and asked Sweetheart to sponsor a float in Wilmington's 250th Parade.

What a monumental project. Hours of time and work. How could we do it?

Through a dedicated group of people who were determined to see Sweetheart had the best float in the Wilmington parade. That's when we heard from people like:

Nina Reardon, Dot Rogers, Lillian Gamby, Margaret Mees, Mary Lunetta, Arlene Cellere, Mary Day, Dorene Crosby, Janette Dooley, Marcia Quinton, Barbara Quinn, Sandy Barlow, Kay Barry, June Servideo, Jackie Souza, Polly Smith, Irwin Patterson, Mary Lahoud, Gail Protopappas, Carole Warren and members of these employees' families who helped make the thousands of flowers needed to make the float signs.

Dave Dalton and Janet Couturier who lettered the float sign with flowers.

The entire Sweetheart women's softball team and Order Processing Department who spent their August coffee breaks making more flowers.

Don Bianchini who spent most of Saturday morning looking for fuses for our blown out sound system.

Midge Mosher who let us use her house as an "organization spot" on the parade day.

Bob Levesque and his family, Janice Fisher and her family, Jack Cushing and his family and Bonny Smith's family who rode on our float during the parade.

Ken Peck who secured a trailer and driver for our float.

Nancy Landen and Wally Young who supplied the art work for our float.

Gerry Parker who got our balloons and Pat Kelly who got our tissue paper for our float.

Rick Whitcomb who picked up the sound system and got it to work for us.

And to our entire building maintenance department who were such good sports and turned a 30-foot flatbed truck into a foundation to build our float.

Tom Sola and his wife Servina who helped decorate the float and represented a Sweetheart family on parade day.

Art Trepaney and Paul Stott who finagled the railcars so we could put our float in the warehouse.

Dick Tufenkjian and Betsy Howe who gave the enthusiasm and moral support to get the project going and follow it through until 6:30 p.m. Sunday night.

And last, but not least, to Tony DelRossi who took some crazy ideas from a piece of paper and worked magic. . . making a spoon, cup, banana boat and sundae dish come to life.

And to all the other people whose names we never knew - families and friends - whose time and efforts helped make our float a success.

We, at Sweetheart Plastics are proud of the people we have working for us.

We just wanted to let you know and thank them publicly.

So, thanks. We couldn't have done it without you. It's you who've made all the difference.

Returning is such sweet sorrow

There was only one disappointment expressed by the seven Tewksbury residents gathered at the John and Sonja Cuneo residence Friday to reminisce about their recent visit to Europe as Operation Friendship representatives: they all had such a great time that they hated to come back.

Who can blame them, after being treated as dignitaries during afternoon teas with mayors, lapping up lager beer with new-found buddies, being swept off their feet in the pubs by adoring young men and women hoping for just one dance with an American, or even rollicking over the rolling hillsides of the unspoiled countryside?

"Whoever said that they don't like Americans over there?" asked an incredulous Rudy Krueger after spending two weeks in the modern town of Arnhem, Holland.

Among those present Friday were three who traveled to Northern Ireland: Mrs. Barber Krueger, Maureen Hancock, and Debbie Bennett; two back from Holland: Rudy Krueger and Tom Trudeau; two from Germany, Michael Cuneo and Kurt Krueger; and Eric Krueger, who traversed Scotland.

Selectman Chairman Charles Coldwell and his wife, Priscilla, also attended Sonja Cuneo's welcome home party to greet the Operation Friendship reps.

Others who made the trip abroad but couldn't make the reunion Friday were Lisa Morelli (No. Ireland), Todd Williams (No. Ireland), Mrs. Ruth Winchester (Scotland), Janet Krueger (Scotland), and Leanne Belladue (Sweden).

The Northern Ireland visitors were particularly impressed with the "40 shades of green" of the countryside and the hospitality provided them. But Mrs. Krueger, Maureen Hancock, and Debbie Bennett were all a bit taken aback with the presence of soldiers everywhere and the blown-up buildings that blemished the otherwise pastoral little country.

"They just couldn't get over how harmlessly we live in the United States," said Mrs. Krueger.

They also said that it was surprisingly damp and chilly at that island country, where they had to sleep with electric blankets or hot water bottles.

But the cold was compensated for by the warmth of their hosts, who served them such traditional Irish victuals as oxtail stew, beef and kidney pie, and soups made from leeks and zucchini.

"One thing is for certain though," related Maureen Hancock, "I've had enough potatoes to last me for a while."

The Holland visitors - Mr. Rudy Krueger and Tom Trudeau - were a little surprised to discover how modern and Westernized the people are there.

To illustrate the similarities in dress between the Dutch and the Americans, Mr. Krueger pointed out that he was even sometimes stopped on streets and asked for directions.

One thing the two Tewksbury residents never got used to was the crazy traffic over there. "And you think Massachusetts is bad!" Tom Trudeau exclaimed.

Another surprise to them was all the canals in Holland, which almost made them think they got on the wrong plane - to Venice!

Kurt Krueger and Michael Cuneo had a gay old time in Germany, where the girls, they said, "just love American guys."

Kurt stated that, although the country seemed pretty Westernized, the teenagers were about 5-10 years behind in current fashions and fads. For instance, a lot of guys still wear their hair very long.

Fortunately for Kurt and Michael, they did at least manage to find one common interest with the people they met: the appreciation of a fine lager beer!

Eric Krueger found the Scottish people so friendly that he's planning a return visit in next May. But first he's expecting a visit from one of his overseas comrades.

Kurt said he was constantly in the company of a fun-loving group of Scottish lads and lassies, who accompanied him to such places as Loch Ness and the castle where Shakespeare's MacBeth allegedly lived.

He wasn't able to capture the Loch Ness monster on film, but he did bring back a colorful portfolio of pictures of the people and places of that rugged northern nation.

Kurt said the people in Scotland seemed small to him, perhaps due in part to the high cost of food there.

Given that fact, and the $3.50 price on a gallon of gas, maybe it's not so bad being back in the good ol' U.S. of A. after all.

The Elementary Schools Band had some very serious clarinetists. Nearest the camera is Tina Micelli.

A new office building is being constructed, off Lowell Street, and across from Avco. The land is owned by John Lucci.

The building will be 216 feet long, and 120 feet deep. The tentative valuation will be, it is understood, $350,000.

Savings are the source of mortgage money. Mortgage money finances building (home) starts. Homes require tradesmen to build them.

Then, they have to be furnished, they need appliances and all this means jobs and jobs mean production which is the answer to inflation.

So tighten your belts and let's save our way out of inflation.

As long as there is inflation, there are no winners.

Tewksbury Pop Warner

Redmen sock Saugus

The Tewksbury Pop Warner A and B traveling teams opened their 1980 season with impressive wins over Saugus at Hazel Field this past Sunday. The large crowd on hand saw the Redmen B squad roll to a 44-0 win, while the Tewksbury A team costed to a 34-0 triumph.

A squad, 34-0

In the A game, Tewksbury drew first blood on the fine running of John Naughton, who carried the ball to the Saugus 25 yard line to set up Joe Indelicato's sweep to the five. From there Joe Leal banged in to give Tewksbury a 6-0 lead. The extra point try failed.

Late in the first period, the Redmen defense went to work, as defensive end Steve Murphy sacked the Saugus quarterback in the endzone for a two point safety. Mike Irvine added to the cause when he broke loose on a 40 yard jaunt for Tewksbury's second TD of the day. Brian Haywood then put the ball dead center through the uprights to put the Redmen out front 16-0 at the end of the first stanza.

In the second period, Redmen quarterback Dennis Boudreau found Bill Gialopos in the endzone with a perfect aerial for Tewksbury's third touchdown. The PAT failed.

Tewksbury's fourth TD came via the air route also, as Boudreau teamed up with Brian Haywood on the second scoring bomb. In the third frame, the Tewksbury Blue squad took over and proceeded to mount a scoring drive of its own, as Bobby Johnston dove in from six yards out to give the Redmen their 34-0 rout. Tewksbury mainstays included John Naughton, Mike Boyle, Shawn Doyle and Bob Johnston.

B squad, 44-0

The Tewksbury B team wasted no time getting on the board, as Joe Vecchi raced 30 yards for the TD on the first play from scrimmage. The PAT failed and Tewksbury led 6-0. Three plays later, the Redmen had the ball again as they recovered a fumble at the Saugus 10. Two plays later Buddy McAllister banged in from five yards out and Bobby Aylward ran the extra point to give the Redmen a quick 13-0 lead.

On the next set of downs, Tewksbury got the ball back on a muffed punt at the Saugus three. Redmen quarterback Bobby Aylward then connected with Chris McHardy on a 25 yard pass play. Steve Defina capped the drive with a dive for six more points.

Late in the second period, Joe Vecchi exploded again as he ran 60 yards to up the score to 25-0. The Redmen added one more score before halftime as Scott Weisensee banged in from two yards out to make it 31-0. Tewksbury came out smoking in the second half, as Timmy Boudreau flew up the sideline for a 70 yard score. On the ensuing kick-off, Tewksbury recovered a fumble at the Saugus 44. Fine runs by Tommy Geraghty, Jeff Larsen, Timmy Boudreau and Judd Smith put the ball on the Saugus two before Pat Doherty blasted off tackle for the score and Scott Weisensee added the PAT for the 44-0 final.

Defensive standouts for the tough Redmen were Greg Kobelski, Scott Bolton and Tom Niles along with Jim and Joe Evangelista.

The Tewksbury teams play host to

Cherokee earn respect

by Rick Cooke

The Rodney Dangerfields of the world would have loved it. The Cherokee, the Tewksbury Pop Warner In-Town C team that over the past couple of seasons has had difficulty earning its fair share of respect, won over league fans and coaches who came expecting the burly Pawnee to run roughshod over coach Ed Blades' troops in their opener played Sunday morning.

It didn't quite work out that way, as the Pawnee needed a 40 yard interception return by Jimmy Anzino coupled with a one yard plunge by quarterback Bobby Dziadosz to prevent an opening game upset by the scrappy Cherokee, who fell 7-6 in the game that preceded the double socking of Saugus by the Tewksbury A and B squads at Hazel Field.

In C team games played Saturday morning, defense was the byword as the Mohawk blanked the Apache, 6-0 and the Sioux stifled the Navajo, 7-0.

Another round for Wildcats, Redmen

by Rick Cooke

It was November of 1979, and the two teams were battling before a standing room only throng to decide who would advance to the Eastern Mass Soccer Tournament.

Wilmington vs. Tewksbury, another round in the Merrimack Valley's best sports rivalry. Wilmington, with a junior goaltender by the name of John Gagnon getting plenty of help from a star-studded defense, shutout Tewksbury 2-0 to qualify for post-season play.

The loss capped the first winning soccer season in Tewksbury High School history, with coach Steve Levine's crew going 11-4-3 overall, 9-4-3 in the Merrimack Valley Conference to miss the tourney by two points.

Wilmington needed 23 to qualify, they got 24. Tewksbury finished with 21. For coach Bill Peabody's gritty Wildcats, the victory was the culmination of quite a comeback, as his team rose up from a 0-10 season to go 10-2-4 and finish in second place behind perennial top dog Billerica.

The tong war starts a bit prematurely when the two teams meet in their MVC opener Saturday morning at the Tewksbury Junior High School pitch. Game time is 11 a.m.

"I'm sorry that we have to play this game first," says Wildcat coach Peabody. It's something that I think we should build up to, and I think that Mike Dascoli (left), younger brother of graduated Bob, is a Redmen co-captain for 1980.

Steve (TMHS coach Levine) agrees with me.

"It doesn't matter who's strong and who's weak. Tewksbury could be 16-0 and Wilmington 0-16 and it would still be a great game," offered Levine. "Peabody's a good coach and I'm improving. I've quieted down quite a bit in the games and saved the hollering for the practices."

Levine's workout four days before the opener was punctuated with "stops" and the line, "if you're tired I want to see your hands (raised in the air). We're going to use 22 men this year."

The Redmen have been put through rigorous workouts since August 25 when Levine greeted 51 candidates at the team's Craftsbury, Vermont camp. He wants more emphasis placed on fundamentals and wants everyone on the team thinking about game situations.

Peabody, always a strong practice coach who drills fundamental soccer, had 33 players come out for his squad, up from 26 last year when Wilmington couldn't field a junior varsity team. This year, according to WHS assistant Dick Scanlon, Wilmington will field a JV team, a very important factor in maintaining any kind of consistency. Just ask Levine, whose team appears to have benefited from just one year of a JV program under assistant Bob Manzi.

Many of those junior varsity players who stood and watched that classic contest last November will be suited up and on the field for the opener Saturday.

The butterflies, always there for a season's opening game, will be present, both on the field and along the sidelines.

"I'm sure it will be the usual hard fought battle," said Peabody, who liked the phrase 'tong war' as an apt description of the game. "It (the rivalry) carries over from other sports and the emotion determines the outcome of a lot of games," said Peabody. There should be no problem generating some emotion come Saturday.

A look at how both teams shape up for the 1980 season:

Wilmington Wildcats (10-2-4-1979) The Wildcats lost nine starters from last year's team that advanced to the Eastern Mass Tourney semifinals at Brandeis University, where they lost 4-1 to Dual County League champ Wayland.

"Our front line was cleaned out," offered Peabody at Tuesday's practice. Graduating from a top notch forward wall are Dana Mullarky, (North Adams) Jim Crowley (U Lowell), Steve Scanlon (Rhode Island College), and Jim Burns. Burns and Scanlon finished second and third respectively in the MVC scoring race a year ago with Burns (New England College) ringing up 21 points on 13 goals and eight assists, while Scanlon finished with 12 goals and four helpers for 16 points.

Gone from the halfback ranks are center-half Mark Lanni (UMass) and Paul Sousa (Westfield State). The Cats will also miss Tim Donnelly, who was tri-captain a year ago with Lanni and Burns.

But, where the Wildcats were hurt most was on that back line of defense, with fullbacks that gave Gagnon super support a year ago. Gary Hastings (UNH), Scott Nolan and Scott Richards (UNH) have all graduated.

Striker Burns and midfielder Lanni were named to the MVC All-Star team in 1979; with Scanlon on the second team stars and Richards earning honorable mention.

So, veterans are scarce these days at the WHS practice sessions, but the inexperience become experienced in a hurry in the tough MVC.

Returning to the fold are senior tri-captains Gagnon, Kevin Reese (defense), and John Protapapas (defense). The three seniors will be expected to shore up what was the Wildcats stronghold throughout their tourney season.

Peabody has a good number of seniors in his ranks that include halfbacks Lou Martinetti, Dan DeCecca and Eric Larsen. Senior strikers include Dan and Dennis Robarge, Byron Kincaid and Steve Daily.

The Wildcat juniors dotting the lineup will be Al Randall (striker), Dana Tarricone (striker), Jim Conti (defense) and Rob Irwin (defense). Sophomores Kevin Bagrowski (defense) and Ray Taylor (defense) are also expected to contribute. Don Josephson, a fine all-around athlete, will see duty as a striker for Wilmington.

Peabody sees the MVC as being, "pretty much as it's always been," and is hoping to finish with a ".500 or better record." As has been the WHS coach's custom, he seldom predicts championships, or even better than .500 seasons for that matter, preferring to play it safe and hope that his team can surprise a few people.

With Wilmington losing nine starters and moving one of the returnees to a new position (Protapapas shifts from wing-half to center-half while Gagnon stays in

Tewksbury looks to rebound

by Rick Cooke
The Tewksbury High School volleyball program has come a long way in just a couple of seasons, qualifying for the Eastern Mass Tournament in 1978 when the team posted its best record of 12-4 overall. Last year, coach Steve Catalano's girls slipped to 7-11 and out of the race in the tough Merrimack Valley Conference, and after the season was over the coach admitted he was a bit disappointed with his team's performance.

But, every September brings the annual renewed hope and enthusiasm, and the Cat's troops have every reason to expect that they will be competitive with the likes of Billerica and Chelmsford, the two squads that figure to battle it out for the conference crown.

Catalano instituted a summer recreation volleyball program in Tewksbury this year, and that has helped, together with the fact that he has several promising players back for another go-round.

Catalano, in his fifth season as the school's only varsity (and junior varsity) volleyball coach, will have junior Jerrie Bernier co-captaining his team along with steady seniors Diane Deveau and Mary Chase.

Bernier, a three sport star at the school and coming off a summer when she played for the Junior Olympic girls basketball team, is the tallest (5-9) player on the team, and is expected to carry most of the spiking load for TMHS this season, just as lanky Maura Caveney did in 1978 when the program came of age with a trip to the tourney.

Deveau and Chase both contributed to the varsity cause a year ago, and they will naturally be expected to set the tone in the first few games.

Five juniors up from the junior varsity will also help to fill the ever-present gaps created by graduation. Peggy Finn, Deidre Gacek, Debbie Smith, Nancy Johnson and Kathy Leary are among a promising group, along with sophomores Robin Riddle, Kathy Sullivan, Suzan Rheault and Maria Catalano.

The Redmen graduated three super people from last year's squad - Joanne Callahan and Doreen Gacek (who are both playing volleyball at the University of Lowell) and Kathy Krugh.

Several of the Tewksbury players attended volleyball camp at the University of Rhode Island this past summer, and that has to help the team avoid a slow start in its pursuit of the top clubs.

Billerica, under coach Lynn Hazel, is a perennial conference power with plenty of veterans returning. The Indians will be hard pressed by a talented Chelmsford team however, and Lowell figures to have some people with good jumping ability around the net. Methuen, also a strong team in recent seasons, could challenge again. Cat's crew will have to pull a few upsets along the way to challenge the top four.

Sunday, the underdog Cherokees came out firing behind quarterback Brian Kobelski, who connected with Burt Gardner for a 55 yard touchdown pass on the first play from scrimmage.

The extra point rush failed and that turned out to be a big play in the third defensive struggle in the opening weekend of Pop Warner action.

The Pawnee defense came up with the big play that helped them to a 7-6 halftime lead when a Kobelski pass in the flat was intercepted by Anzivino and returned to the Cherokee three yard line.

The Cherokee defense, led by the play of Brad Homola, Billy Thurston and Steve Bergen, stiffened, as it took the Pawnees four downs to cover the final three yards to paydirt.

The Pawnee attack also failed to produce a first down against that stingy Cherokee defense.

On a fourth and goal call, Dziadosz banged over for the TD behind the block of center Steve Whelton. Sean Gaynor ran for the important extra point that gave the Pawnees their 7-6 halftime lead and the margin of victory.

Neither team made much of a dent offensively in the second half, although the Pawnee ground game began wearing down the smaller Cherokees in the final quarter.

Outstanding Pawnees offensively were Jim Hollis, Jim Cunningham and Chris Macy. The Pawnee defense was led by Scott Gaynor, Brian Higgins and Matt Daley.

Cherokee standouts were quarterback Jay Rideout, running back Billy Meuse (coming back from a sore knee) center-defensive tackle Rich Howard and special teams player Bobby Soboleski.

A summary of C-team games played Saturday:

Mohawks 6-Apache 0
This game was a super defensive battle until late in the third quarter when Mohawk running back John DeVivo returned an Apache punt 75 yards down the sideline for the winning touchdown. The try for the extra point failed, but the Mohawks defense made sure that six points would be more than enough for the win.

Playing super defensive games for the winners were Ron Anderson, Ricky DeBay and Scott DeVivo. Kevin O'Brien and Bobby Long played fine games defensively for the Apache, while the offensive standouts were Tommy Aylward, Mike Goodine and Scott Niles.

Sioux 7-Navajo 0
The second game Saturday morning saw another defensive tong war, with the Sioux scoring the game's only touchdown in the third quarter when quarterback Todd Simas swept left end for the score as fine blocks by Keith Mikule and Mike Fitzpatrick led the way. Simas then ran for the extra point and a 7-0 Sioux lead.

The Sioux defense was led by Matt Sheehan, with help from Jerry Maloney, Manny Gonsalves, Sean Hodgdon and Ed Cuco. John Burris and Fran Abelli fired the Navajo defense.

The Navajo offense was anchored by John Melvin and the passing combination of Jimmy Collins and Ron Crowell.

This week's Tewksbury C-team schedule pits the Cherokee against the Sioux in Saturday's first game starting at 9 a.m., with the Pawnee taking on the Mohawks at 10:30. Sunday, the Navajo battles the Apache in a 9 a.m. start. All C-team games will be played at Hazel Field.

One of the highlights of the opening weekend was the strong turnout of fans to see the games played both Saturday and Sunday. Pop Warner Director Mike Whelton thanked the parents, the many Tewksbury fans and the hard working cheerleaders who turned out to support the action this past weekend.

Wilmington Pop Warner

C' team tips Waltham, 12-6

The Wilmington Chargers kicked off the 1980 Pop Warner football season Saturday with the A, B and C teams going against Waltham in non-conference season openers at the West Intermediate School field.

In the opening game of the day, the Charger C team under head coach Joe Murphy and assistants Vince Riccio, Leo Penttinen and Jim Fields, defeated Waltham, 12-6.

The C squad opened the scoring in the second quarter with an 11-yard sweep around left end by quarterback Ray Mercuri, coupled with some outstanding blocking from Danny Duffy, Bobby Cole and Jeff Labossiere.

In the third quarter, Waltham got on the scoreboard with a 25 yard scamper off a broken play to tie the score at 6-6. Both teams displayed tight defensive play for the remainder of the third quarter and well into the fourth period, until the Wilmington defense threw Waltham for two substantial losses, setting up a fourth down situation deep in the visitor's territory.

The ensuing punt set up the Chargers in excellent field position at the Waltham 33 yard line and it took Wilmington just five plays to score the go-ahead touchdown on some fine running by fullback Steve Fuller and quarterback Ray Mercuri, capped off with Mercuri scoring on a three yard bolt.

The C team received outstanding defensive play throughout the game from Wayne Poirier, Doug Bevis, Bobby Cole and Steve Fuller, along with steady performances from linemen Bobby Cole, Jeff Labossiere and Steve Tarara, and running backs Steve Fuller, Danny Duffy and quarterback Ray Mercuri.

The second game of the day saw the Charger B squad under head coach Ken Lydon and assistants Jim Bossi and Tom Pote, jump out to a quick first quarter lead on a nine yard scoring pass from quarterback Tom Bachand to Fred Ryan, followed by the same pass pattern for the extra point to take a 7-0 lead. The score held up through the first half.

However, Waltham battled back with a touchdown in both the third and fourth quarters and then held on to notch a 14-7 victory.

Dave Kelly and Kevin Sutton played steady on offense for the Charger B squad, with standout performances from Shawn Connors and Pete Campbell defensively.

In the final game of the opening day tripleheader, Waltham topped the Charger A squad 12-6. The A's coaching staff of Bill Bibeau, Ray Gaud, Bob Sferazza and Greg Farnoff were encouraged with the second half play of the Chargers, highlighted by a 55 yard scoring pass from quarterback Billy Woods to Tony Cutone, as well as the strong running of Mike Ingersoll.

The Wilmington Charger A, B and C squads open up Merrimack Valley Conference League play Sunday, September 14, hosting Dracut at the West Intermediate School field.

Cross country preview

Wildcats prep for Redmen

The Wildcats of Wilmington continue to prepare for their upcoming cross country opener against crosstown rival Tewksbury. Coming off last season's 5-4 record, the team has lost standout John Mucci, but boasts an experienced senior contingent and tough underclassmen to provide added depth.

This year's squad has nine boys and one girl who ran over 500 miles over this past summer. Carl Borgeson, Wally Daley, Mike Tilton, Jim Vachon, Joe Deegan, Scott Braciska, Bob Landrigan, John Richburg, and Bob Meile all completed the 500 mile training.

Captains Carl Borgeson, Mike Cassidy and Mike Stokes, along with seniors Shawn O'Donahue and Bob Clark, lead the Cats in a cross country conference that has a tradition of producing winning teams come All-State Meet time.

Coaches Frank Kelley and Bob Cripps agree that Chelmsford and Billerica (despite the loss of Dennis Cullinane) will be the teams to beat. No team can be taken lightly, and the opening meet with Tewksbury should feature several fierce battles. Girls improved

The vastly improved girls team has four of its first five finishers returning. Co-captain Joan Lombardi will be joined by freshmen standout Mary McNaughton (who finished 21st in Eastern Mass. All-State Meet), Deanna Von Schantz, 500 miler Jennie Wolff, Karen Smith, and Debbie Goslin. Lisa Desforges also looks promising for Wilmington.

Letter

Wallace won race

Dear Larz:

We are writing in regard to your coverage of the Police Association 250th Anniversary Road Race that was held in Wilmington August 5. You printed pictures of the second and third place finishers, but no mention was made of the winner of the race. We called and talked to Stu Neilson and asked why Gary Wallace, who was the actual winner of the race, picture was not in the paper. Stu replied that the possible reason for the omission of Gary's picture was that maybe it didn't come out as well as the others.

It seems funny to us that the second and third place finishers, who are from Wilmington, received mention in your paper. Now the race was open to all Wilmington residents and employees, therefore we ask why no mention nor picture of the number one finisher?

In any event, the least you could do, it seems to us, is remedy the omission in a future edition of your paper.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,

Corrections

In last week's whitewater rafting feature, there was one omission and two errors that should be corrected. First, the names of all the Wilmington residents were not given. Those making the trip with Wilmington Recreation Department Director Ron Swasey were: Doug Murphy, Derrick MacLean, Tracey Murphy, Margaret DeMayo, Dave MacLean, Don Lord, Rebecca MacLean, Rick Barry, Mike George, Tom Tillis, Frank Birmingham, Ken Hart and Tom Tillis.

Also, the trip does take more than just a few minutes, and in fact, Wayne Hockmeyer does not "own" the Kennebec River.

Fun Runs

The following people participated in the September Fun Runs which were held on Saturday, September 6 at 10:30 a.m. on the common.

Three mile: David Kwiatkowski, Barbara Cram, Joanne Brunelle, Ed Palino, Susan Maciowski, Kathy Lawrence. Don Goff, Ron Swasey and Milt Cram.

6.2 mile: E. P. McBride Jr., J. DeMarco and Bob Connors.
The next Fun Run will be held on Saturday, October 4 at the common starting at 10:30 a.m. The entry fee is $1.00 for non-students. Next year the Rec. Dept. is hoping to make this a weekly event for all to enjoy.

Fearless Forecast

Next week Town Crier Sports Editor Rick Cooke will preview the Merrimack Valley Football Conference in what has become known as the Town Crier's 'Fearless Forecast.' Watch for a look at the 'New MVC' in next week's Crier sports.

Punt, pass, kick

The Rotary Club and Wilmington Recreation Department will sponsor this year's Punt, Pass and Kick competition for Wilmington youths. The event will take place on Thursday evening, September 18 at the Town Park. Everyone, both boys and girls, between the ages of eight and 13 as of September 1, 1980 should be at the park by 7 p.m.

This year the competition will not go beyond the local area due to the lack of a national sponsor.

The champs of today . . . . .

Aslanis Fisheries clinched the championship of the Wilmington Mens' Softball League last week with a 7-4 clipping of Realty World that gave the red-hot fish men a 5-0 slate in round-robin playoff action.

The final playoff standings show Aslanis on top, followed by Rocco's (3-2), Doyle's Hardware (2-3) and Realty World (0-5).

In the finale, a five run second inning sparked by Paul Lyman's two-run homer sent the champs on their way. Bruce Butters and Bob Hogg rounded out the winning attack with two hits apiece. Ed Doherty also helped the cause with a two run single in that five run second.

Winning pitcher Dave Newhouse allowed nine hits, finishing with two walks and three strikeouts. After the third inning, the champs' hurler really slammed the door, allowing just one hit and two baserunners.

For Realty World, Herb Mason slapped two hits and Greg Moulton had two hits and two RBI's.

Losing pitcher Jim Hachey pitched in tough luck throughout the playoffs, dropping tough games by 4-3 and 9-8 scores. Jim surrendered nine hits, walking one and fanning one while retiring nine straight Aslanis hitters through the middle innings.

In other playoff action, Rocco's nipped Doyle's Hardware 9-8 as Dana Mullarky ripped a single and a triple, while Doug Harrison contributed with a single and a double.

Dick Herson had two hits and two RBI's and Bill Cole a pair of hits for the winners. Bob Cheney led the Doyle's offense with three hits; Paul Gracia lashed a single and a double; Tom Bromander had two hits good for two RBI's; and Steve Wolley slapped a pair of safeties.

Aslanis line score:
Realty World 2 0 2 0 0 0 4
Aslanis Fisheries 0 5 0 0 2 X 7

Can thank the 'Boys of Summer

Dear Larz:

Recently, I was asked how did softball start in Wilmington? - and as I remember, it was started by two men, George Spanos and Leo O'Connell Sr.

In 1948 there was one softball team in Wilmington - the North Reading San, which was managed by Leo O'Connell Sr., and the main ballplayers were Don O'Connell, Richard O'Connell, Dee Eaton, Walker Spring, etc. The team played in the North Reading League - as there was no softball in Wilmington at that time. The team played through the 1952 season.

In 1952 the first actual Wilmington softball team was formed by George Spanos - he called his team "The Cooties." They wore yellow shirts and navy blue hats. The team players were Leo O'Connell, Jr. - catcher;

Tony Waisnor, first baseman; Bucky Backman 2nd baseman, myself at short and Bob Baker, third. The outfielders were Bob Sheppard, John Ritchie, etc. Pitchers Joe Balestrieri and Joe Cuoco, with Wes Baker being the official umpire. Most of these players were involved with the town baseball team that Louie Elfman sponsored - "Louie's Oilers." The Cooties played several informal games on the Town Common.

In 1953 and 1954 the Little League Park was located on the common which negated any softball being played there. Also during this period Cagy Sam Ethier was now running the new Town Baseball Team that played at the Town Park.

In 1954 when there was a great many servicemen returning home after the Korean War had ended, Leo O'Connell Sr. challenged George Spanos' "Cooties" to a beer softball game. This game was played at Thompson's Grove (where St. Dorothy's Church now stands) and was the first official softball game to be played in Wilmington. Leo O'Connell's old North Reading team trounced George Spanos' Cooties.

Later that year when the O'Connells were selling Christmas trees in front of George's Restaurant, George again challenged Okie - the response was that a league should be formed. Thus, the idea of a Wilmington Softball League was born in the discourse by Leo and George.

Naturally, people like Joe Bradley and Jim Fairweather wanted in, as did other veterans wanting to be active. Within the structure of the infant Recreation Department, the league started in 1955.

The six teams, I believe, were Leo O'Connell's "Oakies," George Spanos' "Boosters" (later Paul McCabe's Merrimacs), National Poly, Greens, the VFW, and the American Legion. The Little League field moved to Harriman's (Dinette World now) and the common was available for softball again.

In 1958, softball moved to the Town Park. Sam Ethier's team was now playing softball and baseball died out for a few years until Jay Tighe started the Tradesmen which played on the new diamond at the High School. Jack Pellerin's American Legion-Shamrock teams probably enjoyed the most success of any Wilmington softball team with their participation in the State Modified Slow-Pitch Tournaments.

As it is said, "Let George and Leo do it" - they did!

Sincerely,
Gerry O'Reilly

goal), Peabody has no illusions about challenging Billerica for the MVC crown.

"Billerica is the top dog in this conference, with a horserace between Chelmsford, Andover, Tewksbury, Greater Lawrence and Wilmington," offered the WHS coach.

"Billerica is a real powerhouse, Andover has looked pretty good and Greater Lowell might be strong. Haverhill and Lowell seem to be building teams," assessed Peabody.

In the preseason, the Wildcats dropped a 2-1 toughie to Shawsheen Tech, nipped Beverly 1-0, and edged a Tewksbury's team speed, which appears to be excellent.

Tewksbury Redmen (9-4-3 in 1979) While the Wildcats have had just one losing season in 11, the Redmen have had their share of setbacks during their infant years, finally emerging as a force to be reckoned with during their first winning season a year ago.

The Redmen also lost nine players to graduation, including All-Stars Ron Wallace, Bob Dascoli, leading scorer Rich Catanzaro (12-3-15) and Andy DeVita, who many MVC coaches thought was the key to Tewksbury's also scrimmaged Burlington, Wakefield and Westford in the preseason.

According to Levine, his team will be backboned by a solid defense. Junior goalie Rich DeMaria, one of the league's best last season, has looked sharp throughout the preseason.

Danny Poulin, a sophomore, who played in goal for Tewksbury's Middlesex Youth Soccer spring champions, will be a solid backup and many times a starter for the varsity.

"Our defense will be led by Mike Dascoli, one of the team's most versatile, as well as spirited members," said Levine.

Other members of the defense will include senior Scott Chappell, up from the JV's of last year, and one of the team's biggest surprises. Juniors Derek Vachon and Robert Busser, also JV's from last year, have also looked like solid players during the preseason.

Mike Langlois and Dean Joyce, both seniors up from the JV's, will add to the depth at the back position.

The midfielders will be led by senior Scott Patterson. The three-year player will be responsible for directing a TMHS midfield that is dominated by underclassmen.

Juniors Billy Perrin, Gerry Horgan, and Steve Fink, all up from that JV team, along with junior Bruce Crochetiere, should provide the team with a competitive midfield situation.

Juniors Steve Vultaggio and Paul Morgan, both third year varsity players, move up from the defender positions to give the team an aggressive attack. Two other seniors include Rich DiGiorgio, another year," concluded Levine.

Tewksbury had 51 players try out for the varsity, with the 24 not making the big club set to play for the junior varsity team which also opens Saturday morning.

Saturday's varsity game might not mean a heck of a lot as far as a race for the conference title is concerned, but whenever these two teams take the field, records, standings and conference races can be chucked out the nearest window. Neither team - and neither town - forgets in a hurry just who won the last game between Tewksbury and Wilmington.

I won't make any prediction on Saturday's game, but here's how I think the MVC soccer race shapes up for 1980

q-qualified for tournament

Wilmington tri-captains for 1980 are: Kevin Reese, John Gagnon and John Protopapas.

Methuen team that appeared to be playing possum at Saturday's, Jamboree, 3-2.

"I don't like a lot of preseason scrimmages. I'd rather concentrate on fundamentals in practice and just use the games for conditioning and to see what we've got. The reason that we win is that we're well schooled in the fundamentals - not because of great numbers," said Peabody while watching his 33 players take a lap around the field.

As far as the New MVC is concerned, Peabody says that he'll "ride it out for a year and see how it turns out. I question as to whether it (expansion) will help all sports and not just my sport," said Peabody.

Right now, Peabody is only concerned with getting his club ready for the opener against a Tewksbury team with good speed on the wings, a fine goaltender in Rich DeMaria, a coach who isn't afraid to gamble, and a player with a very unusual - and according to Peabody an illegal - throw-in from the sideline.

It's a safe bet that when Tewksbury senior Paul Morgan makes that first throw-in - when he does a gymnastics style flip in just after he raises the ball over his head - that Peabody will raise at least a mild protest. He says that it's illegal according to NCAA rules and it should be that way in the MVC.

"Tewksbury has a man who uses a flip throw," Peabody told his troops before Tuesday's practice. "And don't laugh, I heard he's improved," cautioned the WHS coach, who also said that he has heard that Morgan can cover half the field with his unorthodox toss.

What Peabody and the Cats should be more concerned with is success in 1979.

Captains for Tewksbury's fifth soccer season will be senior midfielder Scott Patterson and junior back Mike Dascoli. Levine is keeping 22 players with the varsity, 14 of which are underclassmen-nine juniors, 5 sophomores and eight seniors.

Levine sees 1980 as not a rebuilding year, but a 'developing' season in which many of the players can contribute to putting another winner on the boards right away.

The TMHS coach feels that the Redmen may be able to catch a few teams by surprise in what could be a "down year for everybody" in the MVC.

"I honestly don't know how many strong teams there are," offered Levine during a break in Monday's practice. "I do think that the league is down a decible as far as strength goes, but it may be strong again in two-three years. I see it as a down year for everybody. But it's a wide open race. Just look at Chelmsford last year with 10 ties. And there were teams in the states (tourney) last year that we were better than."

"I hope a lot of teams just don't sit back and play defense," said Levine, who has garnered the reputation as the Al Davis of MVC soccer - preferring to go for the quick score rather than grind it out over the entire game, playing for one or two goals.

Levine does see Billerica as being the team to beat in 1980, and Wilmington assistant Scanlon confirmed most opinions of the Indians with his assessment of their play in Saturday's Jamboree at Chelmsford.

Tewksbury battled to a 0-0 standoff with first year MVC entry Greater Lawrence Saturday. The Redmen former JV, who has been fighting injuries since the season started, and Scott Randall, a first year player.

"We will be given a tremendous boost this year with the aid of a group of four talented sophomores to go along with Danny Poulin," said Levine.

"Tony Masone, along with Mike Dascoli, is the most versatile of the entire group, as he will primarily play midfield, but when necessary, will be able to step in very capably at back, forward, and even goalkeeper. Andy Fleury, well-skilled, and extremely aggressive, will cause havoc with the opponent's defenses because of his deceptive speed. Armindo Dias, another skilled and heady player, should score his share of goals this season, and Bobby Green, a speedy winger, should find himself with many assists this season," offered Levine.

"This team has the potential to be highly successful, and with a good attitude, and a little luck, we could find ourselves in the race again this

All-Star race Saturday

All-star runners Bob Hodge, Vinnie Fleming and Dave McGillivray will race along the banks of the Merrimack River with hundreds of local challengers Saturday, September 13 at the Regatta Oktoberfest World Class Road Race in Lowell.

More than 1,600 runners are expected to enter the 6.2 mile, 10 kilometer race which will start at 11 a.m. and finish at the Heritage Farm Ice Cream stand on Pawtucket Boulevard.

Hodge and Fleming, former All-American runners at the University of Lowell, will lead off the competition Saturday, according to Bob Howard Sr., chairman of the race committee. Dave McGillivray, who is famous for his long distance runs, is also favored to finish among the top five runners.

McGillivray recently trekked 1,520 miles from Florida to Massachusetts in 38 days with his wheelchair partner, Bob Hall, in an "East Coast Run to End Cancer in Children."

Hodge, a resident of Lowell, finished third in the 1979 Boston Marathon with his best marathon time of 2:12:30. Fleming of Melrose, took fifth place in the 1977 Boston Marathon with his best time of 2:18:37.

Trophies and gifts will be awarded to the first three finishers in the following men's and women's divisions: up to 16-years-old, 17-29, 30-39, and 40-49. Additional categories for men are 50-59 years and over 60.

The Oktoberfest run is held in conjunction with the Greater Lowell Regatta Festival, a week-long celebration that includes boat races on the Merrimack River, a parade, a concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra and family activities. Proceeds from festival events, including the road race, will be donated to the Greater Lowell Regatta Festival Charitable Foundation which sponsors more than 100 non-profit organizations in the area.

"Since the Oktoberfest run began three years ago, it has grown in size and prestige," says Eric Hanson, assistant general manager of D.J. Reardon and Company, an Anheuser-Busch distributor which will provide Natural Light Beer to runners 20 years old and up at the finish line. "We're happy to have an opportunity to help out at what has become one of the festival's featured attractions."

Applications for the race are available at headquarters of race sponsors, the Baybank Middlesex and its 64 branches, Heritage Farm Ice Cream and Sandwich Shops, Dean Dairy Ice Cream Shops and D.J. Reardon and Company.

The entry fee is $3.50 in advance, $4.50 the day of the race. For more information, call Bob Howard at 894-6140.

The Andover Road

a wagon going north, on The Andover Road. The wagon was apparently heavily loaded. It was drawn by four horses.

A black man sat on the front seat, beside the driver.

Later in the day the wagon returned, but the driver was alone. The wagon seemed to be empty. So the family story was told.

This gave rise to the legend that the wagon was laden with Capt. Kidd's treasure. Such stories were almost common, in the New England colonies, about 1700. Another such story exists, to the writer's knowledge, in Rhode Island.

The Harnden story was that Capt. Kidd's treasure was taken up into Nod, and there buried. The site was supposed to be near the Devil's Den, a natural cave, off Andover Street and near the North Wilmington pumping station.

In true piratical fashion the black man was supposed to have been slain and buried with the treasure. He is supposed to guard the treasure, and the story is that he still does.

The ghost of that black man arises, on need, and drags the treasure to another spot. The need, of course, is that someone is about to discover the treasure. He is still guarding it, for Capt. Kidd.

Another person who did travel that road, and not by some fanciful tale was William Buck. He was, during the Revolution, a Maine resident, Colonel William Buck, the founder of what is now Rockport, Maine.

The Buck House, now called the Sometime about 1700 there were other roads made, across the Ipswich River. The writer does not know the dates. One of them, for instance, is the road which today is called Route 28, through Reading and North Reading to Andover.

With other roads being built the Andover Road diminished in importance. It still was a good way to get to Maine, but there were other ways to go.

Andover men who had to go to Boston for business used that road. Wilmington families who were moving to Maine - and Woburn families too, used that road. Capt. Kidd, the pirate, according to Wilmington legend, used that road. The story is older than the town.

Richard Harnden, an Englishman who had been in Massachusetts and Rhode Island for some years, according to the family tradition, bought land overlooking The Andover Road and settled there. The date is supposed to be 1665. Possibly it was a little later. There is a deed in the Middlesex Probate Court, with his signature, dated 1667, for the land. He was married, in Reading in 1666.

Where Harnden built his home is now 67 High Street, in North Wilmington. The sons of the Harnden family built homes nearby. Grandsons, too, lived nearby, but some of them went to Maine, via The Andover Road.

The Harnden story of Capt. Kidd is an eerie tale.

One morning, early, the family in the original house on High Street saw Benjamin Buck House, was built in 1671, on The Andover Road. Colonel Buck was born there, and spent his early boyhood in that part of Goshen.

He then emigrated north, to eventually found Rockport.

It is his grave, in Bucksport, which has on the gravestone a figure which is said to be a Witch's Boot. The Colonel, let it be noted, was born in Wilmington, not the witch.

The Benjamin Buck house, in which the Colonel was born, is now the oldest house in Wilmington. It was built in a clearing which had long been an Indian settlement, and today is called Buck's Hill.

Another early home which has long since disappeared was that of Samuel Eames. He lived, as far as the writer can determine, near where the Boston and Maine Railroad crosses the Andover Road today. His home was northerly of what is now Woburn Street, and probably right in the old railroad right-of-way.

Samuel was the son of Robert Eames of Woburn. He and his wife Mary probably moved into Wilmington in the 1680s, and, while their home was in Reading, they seemed to believe it was in Goshen. He and John Harnden headed the first petition (1729) for a separate town, and in it he said he lived in Goshen.

Goshen was part of the Town of Woburn (It was not known as The Land of Goshen). John Harnden, the other signer, did live in that part of Reading which became Wilmington, and probably in his father's house.

There is no trace of Samuel's house. His son Daniel lived in the red house opposite Wildwood Street. His daughter Lydia became Mrs. Ebenezer Buck, and lived nearby, probably in the Benjamin Buck home, which was for many generations a two family home.

The Benjamin Buck house, in addition to being the oldest home in Wilmington, has another claim to distinction. It became, about 1806, when the hop era started in Wilmington, a place in which hops could be dried.

Perhaps there were other homes in which hops could be dried. If there were they do not now exist. Most Wilmington (and Andover, Tewksbury and Burlington) farmers dried their hops in a kiln, which was sort of an outdoor oven.

The Buck family brought their hops into the house, and up into the attic, where the hops were dried on racks. Then the hops were put into big bags. A chute was built, from the attic to the ground floor so bags of hops could be put outdoors with the least inconvenience.

As far as the writer is aware, that chute is still in existence. If so, it is quite probably the only one in the United States.

Boy Scouts from Troop 58 presented a sharp appearance. Leading them in a campaign hat was Larry Flaherty.

Train service changes

Wilmington train service was reduced, and North Wilmington service has another train in the MBTA schedule changes of last Sunday (Sept. 7). The changes were made because the MBTA did not get an additional $41 million it had requested, for funding. Another change in the same direction is being scheduled for October 12.

As far as this paper knows, North Wilmington is the only station in the MBTA to get additional service, as a result of the changes. There used to be five trains to Haverhill, with only three stopping at North Wilmington. Now there are four, but all make the stop at North Wilmington.

Three of the four services being lost to Wilmington are for off peak-hour trains, and the fourth is an evening train, each way. The 9:20 p.m. train from Boston and the 10:50 train from Wilmington to Boston has been eliminated.

As a result of recent work on the Boston-Haverhill line, the speed of the trains on that route has been increased. Travel time between Boston and Haverhill has been reduced by 10 minutes, and the schedule of arrivals and departures at North Wilmington has been changed by a few minutes, in each instance.

The last train to North Wilmington, Saturdays and Sundays, from Boston, has been eliminated. There is, however, a new train which leaves Boston a little over an hour earlier (10:50 p.m.).

Changes were made at the Reading depot too. Nineteen trains now leave Reading, daily, for Boston. The number used to be 23. The same cut has been made in the Boston to Reading run. The last train now leaves Boston for Reading at 11:10 p.m. instead of 11:50 p.m.

Reading used to have 16 trains, each way, on Saturdays, to and from Boston and 15 on Sundays. The number has now been cut to nine, the last being the same train that stops in North Wilmington, and leaves Boston at 10:50 p.m.

Sunday trains have also been cut, for Reading. There used to be 15 each way. The number is now seven. The 10:50 train from Boston makes every stop along the way, to Haverhill.

The last train to Boston from Reading, Saturdays and Sundays, leaves at 9:05 p.m.

The League of Women Voters entered a float and some marchers, all very colorful. Nearest the camera is Chris Twohig.

MASSACHUSETTS CAN'T AFFORD THE SAME OLD LINE ANY LONGER.

WE'VE ALL HEARD CANDIDATES SAY THEY'LL WORK TO BRING BACK TRUST AND CONFIDENCE IN GOVERNMENT.

BILL GUSTUS IS SERIOUS ABOUT RETURNING CONFIDENCE TO STATE GOVERNMENT.

We need a new generation of leadership in the state legislature. We need people who are motivated and responsive—who will bring back a confidence in government. We must change the methods of political campaign financing. Large private contributions can be used to buy the influence of elected officials. This kind of financing must be prohibited by law and replaced by public financing similar to the tax write-off system on the federal level.

WE'VE ALL HEARD ABOUT PUTTING A LID ON RISING STATE AND LOCAL TAXES.

BILL GUSTUS IS SERIOUS ABOUT TAX REFORM.

Property tax reform is long overdue. Immediate relief of the property tax burden must be effected through increased state aid rather than irresponsible slashing of local services. State mandated programs must be funded by the state rather than at the local level. The abolition of county government would eliminate local county assessments and free up additional state funding for local communities. We must limit state spending with a tax cap similar to the 4% cap on the local level. And, we must enact a sunset law aimed at eliminating outdated state programs. We must provide for a review of existing state programs to trim excess fat and increase efficiency of deserving programs.

WE'VE ALL HEARD ABOUT RUNAWAY GOVERNMENT

BILL GUSTUS IS SERIOUS ABOUT LESS GOVERNMENT BUT MORE EFFICIENT GOVERNMENT.

We need less government in Massachusetts. We need a moratorium on the creation of new commissions and agencies. And, we need a consolidation where two or more existing agencies can be combined or streamlined. It is this kind of management in state government that will result in fewer government agencies and greater local control over local affairs. We should have increased local input into the state system. The MBTA Advisory Board with representatives from surrounding communities should be given overall control of the budget and the management of the system thereby returning accountability to a single body.

WE'VE ALL HEARD ABOUT IGNORING THE ENVIRONMENTAL WASTE PROBLEM.

BILL GUSTUS IS SERIOUS ABOUT PROTECTING OUR VITAL RESOURCES.

The Legislature has taken a positive step in the direction of establishing a disposal plant in Massachusetts. We must insure, however, that illegal dumping does not continue. Penalties for those found illegally dumping wastes should be increased and should result in mandatory jail terms for those found guilty of illegal dumping of such wastes with larger fines for corporations.

At the present time each community deals with its problems of water supply and quality independently of surrounding communities. Regional water systems should be planned and implemented to take advantage of the natural watershed areas so as to insure adequate supply and water quality to each of the communities within each regional district.

The regional approach should also be implemented in the area of refuse disposal. Recycling plants, incinerators, and sanitary landfills designed to handle refuse at the regional level can be much more efficient and cost effective than those at the local level.

Regional planning works to the benefit of the local community not only by providing better service but also by lowering costs to the individual communities.

WE'VE ALL HEARD ABOUT STATE SENATORS WHO WILL WORK FOR THE PEOPLE.

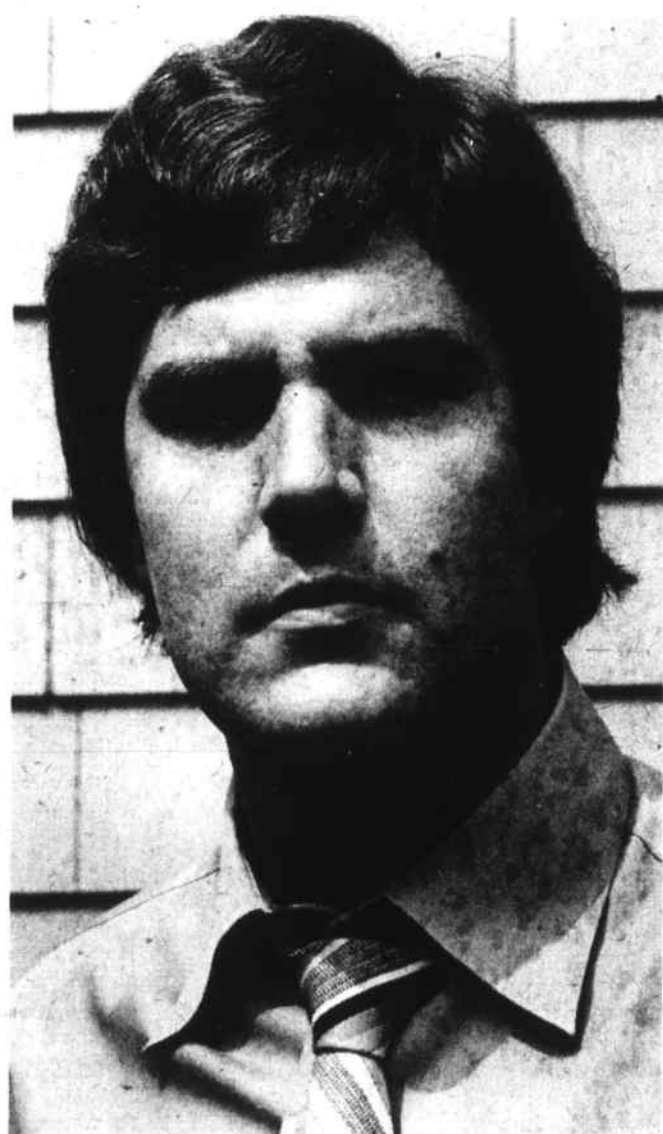

BILL GUSTUS IS SERIOUS ABOUT LOOKING OUT FOR YOU.

A State Senator must be available and responsive to problems of his or her constituents. As your State Senator, Bill would hold office hours not only at the State House in Boston but in the local communities as well. Arrangements can be made to hold office hours at local town halls or other public buildings on a regular basis in each of the communities. As State Senator, Bill would maintain a close relationship with local officials and attend local meetings on a regular basis. Most importantly Bill would make a truly concerted effort to meet as many of his constituents as is possible during the course of the legislative term (as opposed to only during the election campaign).

Wilmington police news

The police blotter indicated that a busy week ended September 9. Incidents and complaints reported to the station included 23 burglar alarms (all false); 10 accidents investigated; 22 criminal arrests made and seven protective custody detentions were carried out.

Missing items included in the eight larcenies reported included car batteries, cash, television sets, flag, scrap metals and bikes. Nineteen disturbances were quieted; 11 incidents of malicious damage and vandalism were recorded and three break and entries were investigated.

Two cars were stolen and one was recovered. Residents reported 15 incidents of suspicious persons or activities. Other calls included traffic complaints, domestic problems, missing children who were returned to their home and cruisers assisted other police departments on several occasions during the week.

Tip of the week: School's open again and officers are out with radar all over town. Their interest is in the safety of the children and traffic enforcement is one way of keeping the streets safe.

Don't be a victim of the same enforcement that most parents are requesting - slow down and drive safely.

The new auxiliary police unit was activated for the anniversary parade on Sunday. Ten men were assigned to various traffic spots along the route.

All ten of these men are to be complimented for their voluntary efforts.

Arrests

Early Friday morning Officer Michael McKenna arrested James A. Leuchter of Shawsheen Street, Tewksbury and charged him with operating under the influence of alcohol, endangering, driving an unregistered, uninsured vehicle and other motor vehicle violations.

Investigating a rash of neighborhood complaints Friday evening, officers arrested 12 youths in the woods off Aldrich Road.

Blais Wentzell of Swain Road; David Campbell of Burlington Avenue; Michael Rollo of Jacqueline Road, Waltham; Shawn Murphy of Skyline Drive Billerica and eight juveniles were all charged with drinking in public and disorderly conduct.

All defendants appeared in Woburn District Court Monday where all but two pleaded guilty to both charges. Disposition in the manner of community service is planned.

Charges of driving under the influence of alcohol and speeding were placed against David P. Agosto of Marble Road, Sutton following his arrest Saturday evening by Officers David McCue and Daniel Ballou.

Shortly after midnight Sunday Officer Chris Nevill arrested a Westford man on motor vehicle charges. John Doast of Tyngsboro Road was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol, endangering, failing to keep right and driving an unregistered, uninsured vehicle.

Sunday morning Pauline Weightman of Shawsheen Avenue, Wilmington was arrested by Officer William Jepson on charges of operating under the influence of alcohol along with larceny of town property.

Sgt. Rooney arrested James Flaherty Sunday morning and charged him with operating under the influence of alcohol. Monday morning Flaherty appeared in Woburn District Court where he pleaded guilty to the charge and requested the alcohol safety driving program.

Paul Murray of Bedford Road, Woburn was arrested Tuesday morning by Officer Pat King and charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and having no license or registration in his possession.

Stolen vehicles

Saturday evening Robert White of Glen Road reported his 1969 Dodge Coronet stolen from the plaza during the evening.

Tuesday morning Peter Sbrano of Park Street told police that his 1977 Jeep had been stolen from his driveway sometime during the night.

Selectmen were misled by WHA, says Rocco

Selectman Rocco DePasquale, Tuesday afternoon, commenting on the actions of the Wilmington Housing Authority, charged that the Wilmington Board of Selectmen had been misled about two months ago, by the Housing Authority. It was at the time the WHA appeared before the selectmen, he said, requesting a special town meeting.

The Town Meeting, DePasquale said, was to be for the purpose of getting 25 units of low and moderate income housing, and the transferring of 6,000 square feet of land, from the Town of Wilmington to the Housing Authority. This was for the purpose of not having to encompass three different zones, and to give the Housing Authority the required frontage, for building permits, on Fanueil Drive.

It was not necessary to bring the question of elderly housing before the Town Meeting, because it is already allowed under the Board of Appeals, in the town's zoning by-laws, DePasquale said. It was not necessary for the town meeting to vote elderly housing.

Along with the article for a transfer of land, the WHA included an article asking that the age limit be reduced from 65 to 62. This is a HUD requirement. Wilmington requires the age of 65.

The Housing Authority, Rocco said, sought to change the Wilmington By-Laws, to meet the Federal standards, and thus put HUD, the federal authority into the local picture.

Rocco called the action a "sting," as quoted by another selectman.

If the people of Wilmington, Rocco said, seek to have changes in their by-laws, it should be after a lot of discussion, and after the implications are fully understood. Such changes should be in an annual town meeting, and at no other time.

The reason the Housing Authority needed a special town meeting, in August, they told the selectmen, was so they could get grants, before the Federal fiscal year was up, in October. Now, said Rocco, we find out that it was not so.

"The Housing Authority will be welcomed by me, if they come before the selectmen, for the purposes of submitting the proper articles, on which the people can vote. Our first responsibility is to take care of the people of Wilmington."

"There is not one member of the board who is against housing for the elderly. I feel that any housing, under the HUD program will not work. That is a proven fact."

Selectmen oppose project

answers. Aldo Cairra was the first to reply. He objected to being backed up against a wall, but said that he was with the opponents of the project "1000 percent."

Selectman Dan Ballou told Theodos that he had voted against the special town meeting. "I feel the senior citizens are being used to put this thing in," he said. Ballou also advocated "taking the bull by the horns and doing something with our zoning by-laws" to help create needed housing.

Chairman Bob Cain said that if federal money were to come to town, he would like to see it directed so that citizens could stay in their homes.

Rocco DePasquale said that he has some clippings on how bad 99 percent of HUD projects have been. He went on to say that he was in favor of the town adopting Planned Residential Development zoning to protect the town.

DePasquale said that he was against the Housing Authority's proposal as it stands, but that he is in favor of housing for the elderly.

John Imbimbo expressed his opposition to the project, calling the site "muskkrat country." He said that he was in favor of scattered site housing.

The Sweetheart Plastics float was preceded by two clown characters, representing a plastic spoon and a plastic cup.

Wilmington senior topics

Senior Fair coming soon

Now that fall is approaching the seniors are preparing for the Senior Fair. To make this year's fair one of the finest, talents and skills of many seniors will be needed. Those who feel they have no special talents are asked to help anyway - others will teach them. All hands will be needed. Far more seniors are said to turn out for social events than turn out to assist with projects. Perhaps this year will be different and everyone will pitch in. Fair meetings will be held Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon.

Legal advisor

Ed Gillis, legal advisor will be at the Drop-in Center Wednesday morning, Sept. 10th beginning at 11 a.m. to assist any senior who might have elderly-related problems such as Social Security, S.S.I. payments and qualifications, food stamps, abuse in any form, Medicare or Medicaid problems and qualifications for elderly housing.

Thanks, Bill

Seniors would like to thank Bill

Strob who was instrumental in obtaining the old cars in which the seniors rode representing their group in the 250th Anniversary Parade last Sunday. Many thanks also to the seniors who took part.

Silver Hair Legislature

Bill Strob, one of the seniors will be seeking a representative seat in the "Silver Haired Legislature." This is a unique opportunity for any senior to take part in state government. The intent behind the program is to articulate senior needs before the state legislature at a special session each November.

September 24 election

Secretary of Elderly Affairs Thomas Mahoney has set Wednesday, Sept. 24 as the date for the election to the Silver Hair Legislature. Will will be running in Wilmington and Tewksbury. Ballot boxes will be at both senior citizen drop-in centers. It is important to set aside Sept. 24 to cast a vote for Bill. This is strictly a voluntary position; he will receive no payment his interest in running stems from his interest in senior citizens.
